Canada's Model Town OROMICTO 50 1956-2006

discover and explore...

Nestled along the banks of the majestic St. John River, minutes from the capital city, is the Town of Oromocto. Discover parks, museums, a golf course, walking trails and other recreational facilities. It is home of Canadian Forces Base Gagetown, the largest military training base in the British Commonwealth.

Military Museum

Discover this country's Military history! Over 100 years of uniforms, weapons, memorabilia, tanks and vehicles on display. Located at Building A5, CFB Gagetown. Open weekdays, and daily during Summer, 8am - 4pm. Free. (506)422-2000 ext: 1304.

Engineering Museum

Discover over 35,000 artifacts and items devoted to military engineering ranging from over 200 uniforms to an original Victoria Cross. Located at Building J10, CFB Gagetown. Open weekdays 8am - 4pm. Free. (506)422-2000 ext: 1897.

Sir Douglas Hazen Park

A beautiful Park located where the Oromocto and St. John Rivers meet. The park provides a view of the Oromocto Marina, a great site for picnics, and is bordered by Fort Hughes Blockhouse, the river, and the Trans Canada Trail System. Free parking. Washrooms available. Wharf Road, behind Oromocto Shopping Mall.

Oromocto Marina

The largest full service marina along the St. John River. Dock space available for visitor use. The nearby Oromocto Shopping Mall offers a variety of services. (506)357-4400.

Fort Hughes Blockhouse

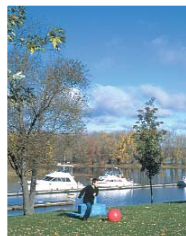

A replica of the original built by the British Forces during the American Revolutionary War. Garrisoned by an infantry company, the Royal Fencible Americans, and commanded by Lt. Constant Connors, the Fort was used as a stopover for messengers traveling between Halifax, Saint John and Quebec City.

Why is Oromocto Canada's " Model Town"? Oromocto's layout is based on an innovative urban community designed by McGill University planner Harold Spence-Sales. In its day of 1956, it was considered novel because the schools were placed in the middle and surrounded by green space, houses were situated on the outskirts, power lines were underground, and the military base was at the forefront. Celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Town in 2006.
